DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A voice raised in righteous protest in a pulpit in Danielson Sunday against the desecration of the Sabbath by vendors and gamblers and "men who drink more now than they did before the advent of prohibition" was fully justified by facts, as one who cares to may find them in Danielson at this time may ascertain. As must have been patent to many people who ever carefully considered the prospects a reformed man will find those who will serve him and his desires, and it is being demonstrated here if a man cannot buy the old-time intoxicants there are substitutes, more deadly still, as freely available as spring water if one has the price, and that seems always available in this town. Vendors are those against whom Sunday's protest was directed and justifiable criticism made of the fact that stores where the stuff is kept in stock are open on Sundays as well as week-days.

The fact is that prohibition is not working as effectively here as many had hoped. Men continue to get drunk, heavily drunk, and the charge is that Jamaica ginger is the beverage used. There is trouble in the homes of the addicts to the vice. Women and children are being made to suffer. Machine-made virtue has not reached a multitude who are drinking a liquid on which one can actually run an automobile. To many the situation is pitiful, and others it is a mere phase of a transition period. The great majority to not even give the matter a passing thought.

The critics point with sarcastic comment to a situation they have long predicted would come to pass. "The sale of hops and malt is now barred," they say, "but we must be rid of the apple and the grape and all kinds of possibilities that rest in such terrible materials as corn and rye and molasses and sugar and certain meals."

Truly, this must be "a transition period." The trouble is that thousands of people in territory hereabouts are insisting on delaying the game and laugh at the restraining legislation made to curb them. Youth as well as adults are affected in the present period of debauchery and the youth that drinks an intoxicant today is taking his initiatory on beverages that would otherwise be whiskey look like innocent concoctions, charge against these banned fluids what one may.

A special meeting of citizens of the borough (this Monday) evening will pass upon the matter of the accommodation of the approximately 500 Catholics who are resident in that outlying corner of the county where a mission was organized many months ago by Rev. J. J. Ginet, S. pastor of St. James parish of this place.

The residence known as the Wright place, next to the Baptist church, was purchased some time ago and the upper floor has been entirely remodeled for use as a chapel. Heretofore masses have been said in Baker's hall.

Father Ginet has received the gift of an altar for the new chapel and is busy himself, this week in an effort to locate from some source about 100 chairs needed to meet the seating requirements of the new place of worship. The chairs are needed in time to be taken to Warrenville for next Sunday's service. Used chairs will be acceptable to the ardent pastor of St. James, who has expended great effort for more than a year in making it possible for the several hundred Catholics in the isolated section where the new chapel is to be erected to attend mass on Sunday. Zealously crying out a real effort in missionary work right here in Windham county, Father Ginet is arousing the local live interest of many and this effort, it is hoped by Catholics here, will result in solving the problem of seats within a day or two.

The new chapel is set in length and will make a satisfactory place for holding services until such time as a new church may be built at Warrenville.

James B. Carver, 75, died at his home in Goodyear Saturday morning. Mr. Carver had been ill for some time and in a serious condition since he suffered a shock, about four weeks ago. He was a native of Pomfret and had lived in this section practically all his life. Mr. Carver had been a carpenter by trade. He leaves his wife and one son, Charles, of Goodyear.

Saturday and Sunday mornings, the recording thermometer at Woodward's store showed that the weather temperature was 13 degrees above zero. This low temperature brought discomfort into numbers of homes in the borough, where there is a scarcity of hard coal. Plenty of wood is available in the territory, but this does not prove as satisfactory for heating purposes as the coal.

Danielson people will see an interesting parade of Windham county Odd Fellows organizations next Thursday evening. The new 2nd and 3rd regiments of Canton Windham, No. 2, will be seen here on parade for the first time in this section of the county. Visiting Odd Fellows from Waterbury, Vernon, Putnam and Central Village. The parade will be headed by St. James' band as escort.

Louis Viens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Viens of Dyer street, was reported Sunday as making good progress toward ultimate recovery. He is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital at Willimantic, where he was taken recently, fatally hurt, after being injured by being struck in the head by a piece of lumber while he was working on a construction job in Willimantic. Mr. Viens was in the employ of F. A. Davis and Son of this place.

Danielson Catholics were given an opportunity Sunday to take into their homes permanently one or more little children from the Catholic orphanages of the state. Miss Catherine Boyd, representing St. Joseph's, D. D. bishop of Hartford, came here to receive applications from those who would adopt one child or more. The war, the influenza epidemic and other causes have contributed during the past four years to increasing abnormally the number of inmates in the Catholic orphanages of the state and an effort is being made to find homes for as many as possible of them in parishes throughout Connecticut.

The Connecticut Mills basketball team, which has been reorganized, is expected to prove one of the fastest teams in this part of the state. It is stated, Robert Pellerin will manage the team this year. Mr. Pellerin feels confident that the team will make a good showing during the playing season and is ready to do book games with fast teams representing southern New England towns and cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon have returned from their wedding trip and are occupying their home here.

The collection taken Sunday at St. James' parish for the benefit of the Day Kimball hospital was liberal. The amount will be announced and the money given to the hospital.

Anselm Mayotte post, American Legion, holds its meeting this (Monday) evening at the Arcanum club rooms. This is the last meeting before the regular annual meeting in December. The Legion took the initiative in the celebration of Armistice day and the committee in charge was very much gratified with the co-operation of the other patriotic and fraternal orders and the city officials, and has thanked all who gave their services at the concert in the evening.

The junior class of the high school held a Halloween dance at the high school Friday evening. It was postponed from two weeks ago because of cases of measles. A large crowd was in attendance, all in Halloween costumes. The gentlemen's prize for the most outlandish costume went to John Hannafin, a junior at the school, who was dressed as a Chinaman, and the prize for the most outlandish costume on a woman or girl went to Mary Child, of the Freshman class, dressed to represent a woman of Colonial times. Music for dancing was furnished by the Goodyear orchestra. The affair was in charge of a committee from the junior class of which Sidney Hayward was chairman.

William K. Bath has given up his office in the Bradley building, Main street, and is leaving today (Monday) to open an office in Willimantic, where he resided before coming to Putnam.

Ernest Thompson of Lamont street, who recently cut his foot with an axe, is able to be out.

Alice Perry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Perry, has sufficiently recovered from an attack of infantile paralysis to be able to sit up. The quarantine is removed today. So far as known no new cases of this disease have appeared in this city.

Ruth Perry, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. M. Child, of Pomfret, has returned home.

A noteworthy feature of the Armistice day parade was the presence in the line of seven Civil war veterans. Six of these followed the younger soldiers through the entire line of march. Charles Monroe, who has carried the flag ever since the A. G. Warner post was organized, carried the standard of the veterans through the parade. He is 82 years of age.

Thomas Taylor, probably the last survivor of the crew of the Monitor, Chauncey Morse, Joseph McKachnie, Anson A. Buchanan, Hiram L. Bartlett and John B. Leure followed the old flag.

Late Friday afternoon Putnam was visited by a group of Connecticut state police, accompanied by a few state police from Massachusetts and two auto inspectors from Worcester. They were taken by Captain Bulger to the local police station, where they looked over the loot which has been at headquarters awaiting claimants. The officers from the nearby state identified three guns, a box of silencers and a graphophone as articles which had recently been stolen from James B. Fitchburg Police headquarters. The three officers still look like an auction room, however, as there is much unclaimed material awaiting owners. The three who were arrested charged with stealing all this material are lodged in Brooklyn jail in default of bonds.

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams of Oxford, Mass., spent the week end with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wood, of Walnut street.

Since the measles started over 300 cases of the disease have been reported to the local health officer. New cases are still being reported at the rate of from five to ten a day. The number of new cases reported for the last three days of last week were Thursday 10, Friday 6 and Saturday 4.

The High School Cadet corps is now organized and the following officers have been elected: George Child, '21, Captain; Leroy Ames, '22, first lieutenant; and Alfred Barber, '22, second lieutenant. Eberle Spencer, '22, was appointed post sergeant.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Lapeley of Pomfret Center have been here for some time and are spending the winter months in Tallahassee, Fla.

The Patriot fund for the Day Kimball hospital amounts to $1,419.35. The baby fund for the same institution stands at the suggestion of Mrs. E. C. Morse, amounts to $18.50.

Mrs. James Wilson is visiting her sister in Clinton, Mass.

County Agent F. L. Davis and W. H. Darrow, fruit specialist from the agricultural college, arranged with F. E. Carls and Eben Bass of Scotland for orchard management demonstrations. The purpose of the demonstration is to work out a practical example of what can be done with orchards, in one case maintaining a low production, in the other case building up the health of the trees.

These demonstrations are to be the center of the fruit work by the farmers' association in the town of Scotland. Franchising will be started by holding a demonstration some time in December.

In raids against men suspected of having engaged in moonshining and bootlegging operations four arrests were made Saturday night and Sunday. The men, all foreigners, will be presented in court in the town of Thompson today (Monday).

Captain J. H. Bulger and Officer Eugene Gibeau of this city assisted Officer John Kennedy of North Grotonville in making the raids. The men arrested were taken on John Doe warrants and their names were not obtained Saturday. At an isolated place on a back road near West Thompson the officers had to break down a door to get in. In the cellar found half a barrel of warm mash which evidently had been steaming a while before, and several quarts of moonshine whiskey. No still was found. Two arrests were made at this place. Another arrest was made at a place near Thompson. Of the men arrested some will be charged to the hospital in a day or two.

Mrs. Clara Nade is spending this week in Boston, visiting relatives.

Many gathered Saturday at an auction sale conducted by Witter & Sons at the Grasmere farm, near Elmville.

Rev. J. J. Nade, D. D. bishop of Taunton, was a visitor with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bassett motored to South Manchester Sunday.

Frank C. Danvers of Worcester visited friends here over Sunday.

The boat train being about three hours late Sunday morning, hundreds of subscribers had to wait for the delivery of their papers, which were hustled out by the dealers as quickly as received.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Redman, Miss Nellie Redman motored to Taunton, Mass., recently.
